

The intermodals listed below are the planned or are the expected trains to be hauled by Freightliner class 90(s). Please note that on the odd occasion, any of the listed trains could be worked by other traction types. Additionally, class 90s could also work other intermodals not listed below as required if the booked traction type is not available. The headcodes and timings are based on the December 2024 timetable – the trains listed below are based on that period albeit updated to reflect changes in traffic flows.

Unfortunately, I no longer receive Freightliner diagrams, therefore trains listed below are based on observations of the fleet and do NOT include next workings for the foreseeable future.

At the time of writing, some of the trains noted above are NOT always electric traction for one reason or another, therefore it should be used as a guide and we cannot be held liable if class 90s do not appear on the train. The information is supplied in good faith. Thank you for your understanding. Lastly, some trains run in different paths and timings at short notice on different days of the week and at weekends, therefore it is best to check websites such as RTT to see if a specific train is running on the day, you are looking for. The above will be updated when omissions have been identified or there are known changes to specific traffic flows.

Miscellaneous Northbound Intermodals:

The list of trains shown below are sometimes hauled by a Freightliner class 90, therefore should be used as a guide (more often than not they are diesel hauled). In addition, there are also light engine movements using class 90s, which have NOT been listed below.
